AGAM-AGAM

1. Itong agam-agam maraming dahilan,
Una ay dahilan sa maling paggampan,
Ang mali'y lilikha ng masamang damdam,
Nagiging asiwa ang may kasalanan.
2. Pagka't ang konsensya'y naapektuhan
Ng tulis ng sundot nitong kasalanan,
Kahit na matigas ang puso sa ganyan,
Itong agam-agam di maiiwasan.
3. Ikalawang dahil kulang sa gawain
At itong resulta'y parang mabibitin,
Walang katiyakan sa mga darating,
Kaya agam-agam tao'y dadalawin.
4. Ikatlong dahilan ay pag nalimutan
Ang isang hakbangin na kinakailangan,
Dahil di kumpleto ito'y magkukulang,
At baka lumitaw itong kabiguan.
5. At ang ikaapat na dahilan pa rin,
Kahit na maayos lahat ng gawain,
Alam mong di sikap lamang ang magaling,
Ang nais din ng Diyos ang pananaigin.
6. Itong agam-agam bahagi ng buhay,
Lagi mong kasama kahit ka matibay,
Subali't pag buti ay lagi mong alam,
Iyong agam-gam konti lang na bagay.
7. Bawa't agam-gam ay isang pagsubok,
Sa anumang dahil ito ay sisipot,
Taong may pag-asa't nananalig sa Diyos,
May isang daanang puwede niyang mapasok.
8. Bawa't agam-agam dapat may pag-asa,
Dapat na may buti't ayos itong obra,
Agam-agam itong may sabing maganda:
Di tayo ang bida at Diyos ang may pasya.

When he was asked about what he can do to solve the problem of traveling and delivering goods from Luzon to Visayas, Go said he will check on the status of the proposed Sorsogon-Samar bridges that would connect the islands of Bicol to Eastern Visayas.

"Dati ko naman po silang mga kasamahan sa gobyerno. Tatanong po natin sa DPWH at NEDA kung paano masuportahan ang proyektong ito. Kahit sa drawing board pa lang ay bigyan ko na po ng effort just to jump start the study of the project," Go answered.

Health Benefits...

Tsaang gubat (Carmona retusa)

Tsaang gubat is one of the 10 herbal medicines recommended by the Philippine's Department of Health for safe use. It is largely used for the treatment of skin diseases and stomach problems.

Tsaang Gubat (Carmona retusa) also called Philippine Tea is a shrub that grows wild in the tropical climate of India, Sri Lanka and Philippines. It is also cultivated as ornamental plant as single plant or hedge, recently gaining popularity as bonsai in China and Japan.

Tsaang gubat is an erect, shrub with green compound leaves. The tsaang gubat shrub grows to about 1 to 4 meters high and can be found in secondary forest in low and medium altitude. Tsaang gubat leaves grows in clusters on short branches, 3-6 cm long, somewhat toothed or lobed near the apex and pointed at the base, short stalked and rough on the upper surface. Tsaang gubat bears small white flowers, axillary, solitary, 2 or 4 on a common stalk. It bears yellow fruits when ripe about 4-5 mm in diameter, fleshy, with a 4-seeded stone.

Tsaang gubat Traditional Medicinal Uses

Tsaang gubat is largely used in traditional herbal medicine for various conditions.

Tsaang gubat is widely used in the Philippines as herbal medicine for skin diseases and stomach problems where it is available in tablet and tea bags forms while there are other claimed health benefits as follows:

Anti-allergy. The tsaang gubat were studied for possible anti-allergic substances to counter the histamine release from mast cells that cause type-1 reactions. The tsaang-gubat, contains rosmarinic acid and microphyllone which is attributed for its efficacy to control allergy.

Antibacterial. In a study done to evaluate the antibacterial activity of Carmona retusa, three different extracts have been prepared with petroleum ether, methanol and chloroform separately from Carmona retusa. Antibacterial activity of petroleum ether, chloroform and methanol extracts obtained from the leaf of Carmona retusa were tested against four bacteria using the agar diffusion method. The experimental data indicated that all extracts exhibit moderate to appreciable antibacterial activities against Bacillus subtilis, Klebsiella pneumoniae, Shigella flexneri and Pseudomonas aeruginosa. These results may suggest that Carmona retusa could be used as an antibacterial agent. Source: Phytochemical screening and antibacterial property of carmona retusa (VAHL.) International Journal of Pharma Medicine and Biological Sciences, 1 (2). pp. 91-98. ISSN 2278 – 5221

The tsaang gubat analgesic activity, The major constituent of Carmona retusa (Vahl.) Masam. leaves is an intractable mixture of triterpenes, namely α -amyrin (43.7%), β -amyrin (24.9%), and baurenol (31.4%). At a dosage of 100 mg/kg mouse, the triterpene mixture exhibited 51% analgesic activity but only showed 20% anti-inflammatory activity. Source: Evaluation of the bioactivity of triterpene mixture isolated from Carmona retusa (Vahl.) Masam leaves; Journal of Ethnopharmacology,

Volume 92, Issue 1, May 2004

Anti inflammatory. Based on the above results it is suggest that the alcoholic extract of Carmona retusa posses antiinflammatory activity studied by in vitro assays. Antiinflammatory activity may be due to the presence of many phytochemical in the extract. However, further studies are required to identify the lead molecule in the extract and to study the action of mechnasim. Our Home brings the joys of Christmas to your home with its Merry Styles of Christmas collection. We've put together five holiday looks - ranging from the festive to the pristine, to the avant-garde, to the classic, to the lavish - that you can choose from to express your yuletide style.

•Christmas Le Grand

Festive, outlandish, spectacular. Our Home's take on the yuletide season takes a major turn as the circus comes to Christmas town. Jewel tones and bright and vibrant hues take center stage against dramatic black furniture and gold furnishings; while harlequin masques in black and white revolve around golden circles. The circus has truly come to town in Our Home.

•Christmas in Calm Splendor

Frosted, pristine, pure. Snowflakes and icicles suspended in mirrored decorations, garlands adorned with frosted teardrops in icy blue and trees embellished with pearls and silver trinkets, all give off a serene and silent vibe - another way of celebrating the other side of Christmas. Our Home gives off a different way of celebrating the most wonderful time of the year - modern, contemporary and sleek.

•Boho Christmas

Avant-garde, laid back, muted. The look is different. The feel is care-free. This is Our Home's take on bohemian chic. Pastel colors, soft tones and a hushed and gentle atmosphere complete an unconventional Christmas theme. Trees and garlands adorned with strings of pearls in light and pale hues, large roses and poinsettias that fade into a blissful background while butterflies with their glittered wings a-flutter embellish wreaths and twigs giving off an ethereal and whimsical character.

•Christmas Tradition

Established, classic, time-honored. A traditional celebration takes place as Our Home pays tribute to an immortal and enduring combination of red and green. A forest of gar-lands and wreaths drop from the ceiling as inverted Christmas trees form a chandelier... arches are numerous decked with lights... Santa Claus, Frosty and Rudolph reunite while toys and candies dangle above... this is how Christmas is celebrated the traditional way.
